The Departmental Advisory Board (DAB) meeting began by welcoming all the DAB committee members followed by an introduction of them all, which was done by Prof. Geetanjali N.

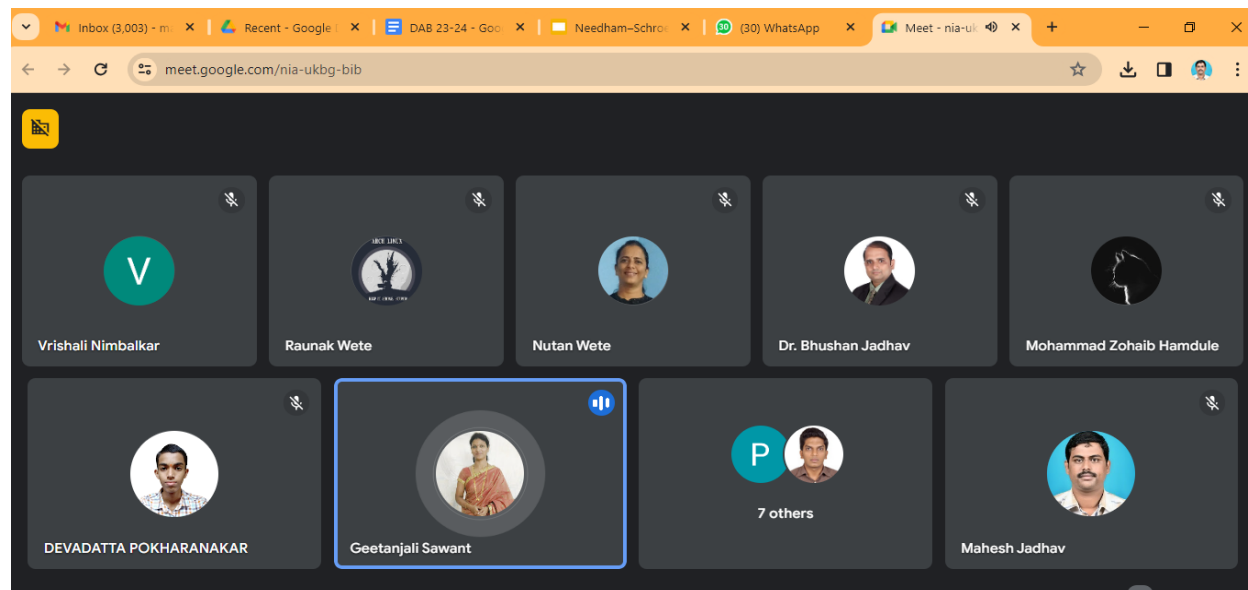

Sawant. It was followed by a departmental presentation given by the Head of Department, Prof. V. V. Nimbalkar.

The presentation gave information about the department, various activities such as Expert lectures, workshops, seminars, etc., carried out by the department for the students, activities undertaken by the students association(ACSES), students achievements, results, Industrial training and placement information, various courses undertaken by the students, etc. An overview of various Coursera courses, NPTEL courses, ATAL FDP, STTP, workshops, Industrial Training and webinars undertaken by the faculty was given. The meeting was then open for discussion and suggestions for the improvement and betterment of the Department.

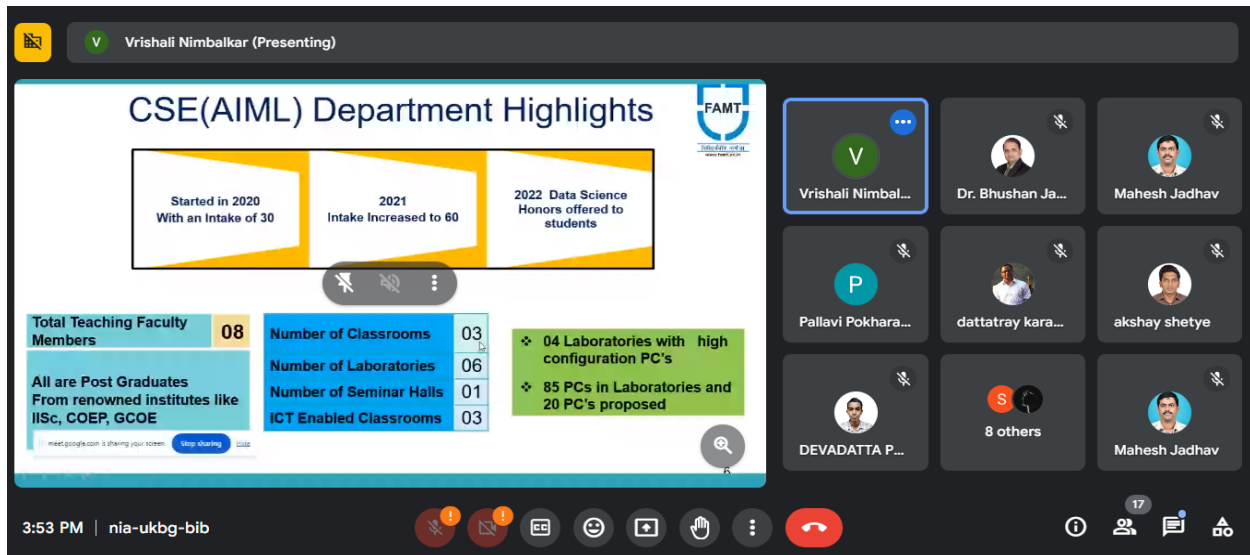

Dr Bhushan Jadhav suggested organizing an AICTE-sponsored FDP and Hackathon for students to develop their coding abilities. Mr Dattatray Karambelkar suggested that students should focus on Data Structures and Mathematics subjects as it will help them in their technical interview. He also suggested that students should improve their communication skills from a job perspective. The majority of DAB members emphasized making students aware of online coding platforms such as HackerRank, LeetCode, freeCodeCamp, etc., to improve their coding skills. This can help them participate in competitions or hackathons.

The suggestions given by Dr Bhushan Jadhav, Mr Dattatray Karambelkar, parents, students and faculty were noted. The meeting ended with a vote of thanks. The program was coordinated by Prof. Geetanjali N.Sawant
